

Mentor A

ABOUT ALTIOREM

Altiorem is a community built library and resource centre accelerating the shift towards a flourishing society and environment, with principles of stewardship and responsibility at our core. We are building a relevant, high quality and accessible body of knowledge to support our members to implement sustainable finance in their day to day. Altiorem is also an ecosystem where university students (contributors), issues experts (mentors) and the community of users (members) benefit while building Altiorem together.

BENEFITS OF MENTORING

Shape the library

Curate and prioritise content for publication

Self-directed & flexible

Select topics that interest you, determine your time commitment and volunteering schedule

Share your expertise

Support our contributors (university students) through to publication of their research summaries and organisation profiles

Add value to your career

Expand your knowledge of the major social and environmental challenges the world faces and their business and finance relevance

Build your profile

Your work is recognised through by-lines on published summaries and your own volunteer profile page. See here

Grow your network

Access to Altiorem's growing international community of sustainable finance experts and leaders

Impact

Make a positive impact with a purpose-led organisation

ABOUT MENTORING

Mentor from anywhere at anytime using our cloud-based online platform.

Topics are diverse covering everything from climate change and human rights to the financial performance of more sustainable companies. See examples of research.

Comprehensive training modules and individual support from the Altiorem team and other experienced mentors will be available to guide you through the process.

You will be expected to complete research summary reviews within 4 weeks of starting them and can work on up to 2 at a time. Research summaries can take between 2-4 hours to review depending on the length and complexity of the research.

ROLE AND RESPONSIBILITIES

- > complete onboarding training
- > sort and prioritise research for contributors to summarise
- > review contributor's work to ensure they meet Altiorem's quality standards
- > engage with the Altiorem community to develop and improve the library

Register here

To register, complete the volunteer agreement and work from home safety check list.

Once submitted, the Altiorem team will complete your registration and you will receive an email with the onboarding steps.

I'm so excited to recommend volunteering with Altiorem. It's a fantastic opportunity to learn from experienced industry professionals one-on-one, about the material ESG/Sustainability issues that impact the way investors think in the real world.

Paula Rogers, Mentor

What mentors have said about their Altioirem experience

Google may help us find information, but Altioirem can focus the search, and answer the “so what?” question — and to effectively communicate the answer. I like that Altioirem gives the user a succinct summary of what the research is and why it could be useful. So the usually time-poor user doesn't need to read the research first before deciding whether it's of any use to them.

MICHAEL CORCORAN

Being a mentor is not just about helping contributors complete summaries for the library but also to help build a global resource. Altioirem has a strong role to play in collating the best research and enabling people to learn how to build good investment cases that integrate ESG considerations.

SEBASTIAN VANDERZEIL

Altioirem's structured approach to writing summaries of academic paper and industry reports, is teaching me a lifelong workplace skill that providing an easy-to-use framework of how complex issues fit into the global sustainability landscape. My collaborative contributions to Altioirem are free to users online, meaning there are no barriers to its purposeful use to promote change for good. Finally, it's a great platform to demonstrate my ability to synthesis the issues, to future employers and clients.

PAULA ROGERS

It's been a great experience so far. It's exciting to be part of a 'start-up' and thrilling to contribute to the cause. It's good to give and receive open/constructive feedback in a collaborative environment and at your own pace. It is also a great opportunity to interact with like-minded people and to learn new things — there's just so much research and content out there! It is a fulfilling and rewarding experience to see the platform growing.

ENRICO COLOMBO